The prize steer at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto sold for $1.25 per lbs it weighed 875 lbs., and brought its owner $1,093. This would make extra care profitable alright.

The barn of A. Betts was burned to the ground Wednesday afternoon this week. Boys and matches started the blaze and the fire bridge was on the ground in good time, but as there was no water, they had to use buckets, and could do nothing more than confine the flames to the one building. The loss is about $200.

Chas. N. Oilphant, aged 27, a farm hand near Milk River has confessed to slaying Long Ying Sing, Milk River pool room proprietor on the night of March 17. His preliminary hearing has been held and he has been sent up for trial at the criminal assizes in June. He made a voluntary confession and related the whole sordid story.

The Show of Shows which plays at The Capitol the first 3 days of next week is without a doubt one of the greatest of all pictures. Only last week this played 3 extra days in Calgary which was necessary to accommodate the tremendous crowds. The cast includes 77 stars including Nick Lucas and Winnie Lightner of Gold-diggers of Broadway fame.

BRITISH NEWSPAPER HAS JUNIOR EDITION

A new departure in British journalism was marked here by the appearance, March 22, of the first junior edition of the Daily Express, which will form a regular supplement of the grown-up portion of the paper.

The aim of this eight-page miniature newspaper is to provide British children of all ages with news of the day as well as interesting and instructive articles. The editor disclaims any intention of "wrecking down" to young readers, but will try to treat them as intelligent citizens of the future.—Christian Science Monitor.

Mary Anderson Passes

One of the saddest deaths in years occurred last Friday, April 4, when Mary Lou, the 2½ year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson passed away from what is believed to be poisoning, no verdict having been given as yet.

With her two sisters one older and one younger than herself, and three other children, she had been out playing all morning, and arriving home about noon, had eaten a hearty meal, after which she went to bed for her afternoon nap. She slept soundly for about two hours and then woke up complaining of pains in her abdomen.

Her mother thought probably the hearty meal had upset her and put her back to bed, but she soon commenced vomiting and grew steadily worse. The doctor was summoned and everything was done that loving hands could do, but the little girl passed away.

A coroner's jury was summoned by Coroner McNicol of Lethbridge, consisting of T. K. Roberts, foreman, Rollo Kinsey, J. Denieaster, Frank Hall, Dean Lamb, and Wm. Wiggall. After viewing the body and holding a post mortem, permission was given for burial, and the funeral services were held Sunday, April 6, in the Raymond 2nd Ward Chapel, and the jury adjourned until Monday evening April 21st, at 7:30 p.m.

FUNERAL SERVICES

With Councillor W. A. Heninger in charge, the funeral services over the remains of little Mary Lou Anderson were held Sunday, April 6 in the Second Ward Chapel.

With Azel Stevenson conducting, the choir rendered the following hymns—"Sometime, We'll Understand," "Prayer Is the Soul's Sincere Desire," and "A Beautiful City," by the choir with Wm. C. Stone directing. Mrs. Blanche Scoville sang "My Opportunity."

The speakers were:—Jas. S. Anderson, C. W. Selman, S. B. Smith, and J. W. Evans of the Stake Presidency, who all offered words of comfort and consolation to sorrowing parents and relatives.

Interment was made in the Raymond cemetery.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson in this hour of their deep bereavement.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to all those who assisted in any way during the illness and death of our little daughter; also to those who sent the beautiful flowers, and donated cars for the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Anderson, and family.

The body was accompanied by a daughter Mrs. G. H. Higgs of Los Angeles, at whose home Mrs. Walton had been living for some time past. Another daughter, Mrs. Irvin Carter of Nampa, Idaho, will arrive tonight for the services on Sunday.

CONTROL OF INTESTINAL WORMS IN SWINE

The young pig is subject to parasitic invasion by at least eight different species of worms, of which the round worm (Ascarid) is by far the most common. The common round worm of swine cause unthriftiness and increased mortality in young pigs, and increased the cost of feed required to rear pigs to market weight. The most excellent breeding stock together with the best feeds and skilled feeding, will be productive of greatly reduced profits when young pigs are allowed to become infested with worms. The common round worm is found practically wherever pigs are reared, and very few herds are entirely free from the pest. The infestation is more serious on farm where hogs are raised in large numbers in the same yards and runways, year after year, and on farms where little attention is paid to sanitation. Estimates obtained from 2 of the larger packing plants in Winnipeg show from one-third to one-half of all hogs slaughtered in their plants to be infested with worms. Feeding records kept at the Dominion Experimental Farm, Brandon, show the feed cost to rear worm infested pigs to market weight to be $2.32 more than the cost to feed to rear a worm free pig to the average market weight of 200 pounds.

Young pigs show the effect of the ravages of worm infestation more than older ones. Mature pigs may harbour a large number of worms without apparent effect on the health of the individual. Mature pigs that are infested with worms provide a continuous source of infestation for the young pigs that may have access to the same pens or the same yards.

The effects of worm infestation may be summarized as follows: 1. A severe infestation of worms in the young pig will cause death in a few weeks.

2. Infestation in a lesser degree will retard growth and interfere with the general shift of the pigs.

3. Worm infestation weakens the young pig's vitality, and predisposes him to such diseases as "thumps" and broncho-pneumonia.

The financial losses due to worm infestation are caused by:—

1. Increased mortality in suckling and weanling pigs.

2. General unthriftiness in the young pigs, resulting in more feed being required to rear and finish market.

3. Lengthening the feeding period required to rear the pigs and find them for market consequently the pig will not be ready for the early market which is usually the most profitable one.

CONTROL MEASURES.—A system control of intestinal parasites of swine was first outlined by work in the McLean County, Illinois, and has been widely adopted wherever preventive and control measures have been used. Five simple but necessary steps constitute the preventive system which is based almost entirely upon sanitation. The objective of the system is to exclude from the intestines of the brood sows all mature worms, and to prevent the young pigs coming in contact with worm eggs that have passed the required 10 days to two weeks after being excreted with the feces from the sow.

The Week in the Alberta Legislature

The Fourth Session of the Sixth Legislature of Alberta, was brought to a close under unprecedented circumstances, the Legislative Building being virtually in a state of siege. Members, officials, press representatives, were carefully scrutinized by a cordon of police as they entered for the session of Thursday evening; all others were denied entrance. Such precautions were taken following rumors that the unemployed planned to filter into the corridors and galleries in small groups and when in sufficient numbers to interrupt the proceedings. On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoons they had marched in considerable numbers to the House but had been refused admission; their deputations had been listened to. Now apparently they had decided on a change of tactics and sure enough at 7:30 a small knot of unemployed sauntered up to the main entrance to be met by an impressive line of determined looking Provincial Police. As more of the discontented came up some murmuring could be heard but no offer to storm the approaches was made. Many citizens who had come to see the prorogation ceremonies were necessarily disappointed but they may look forward to next year's closing.

The two days of the adjourned session were indeed crowded for the members managed to get in much useful bill passing as well as to listen to extensive debates on the Donatville Society and the Edmonton City Charter. Discussion of the activities of the Donatville Society under the provisions of the Alberta Co-op. Credit Act and of the working of the Co-op. Marketing Associations Guarantee Act took up a great deal of time. The report of the public accounts committee showed laxity of supervision in the Donatville affair but expressed the hope that under new control such conditions would not occur again. This did not satisfy the Liberals, Geo. Webster, Calgary, and J. W. Frame, Athabasca, who offered an amendment definitely censuring the Treasury Department, demanding more care in future, and asking an immediate audit of every credit society in the province. The amendment was defeated 44-9 but an amendment by F. J. White, Labor leader, requiring an annual audit of all such societies was carried by the same numbers.

Debate on the amendments to the Edmonton City Charter took up much time and called forth some impassioned oratory. Clause 10 caused all the trouble. At the last civic elections the citizens of Edmonton by a large number agreed with the Wednesday half holiday eleven months in mand of the retail clerks for a Wednesday. The City Council decided however to have the Wed. half-holiday from May to August and to give the clerks a 5½ day week for the rest of the time without closing stores. The Assembly in Committee was faced with the dilemma: whether to pass the clause as requested by the City Council letting it take the responsibility at the next election or whether it should take into account the clearly expressed will of the people. Mr. Lymburn, who along with Col. Weaver championed the cause of the City Council thought that the people hadn't really understood the question at issue. He caused some ironical merriment by saying that the people had not followed the issue in the editorial columns of the Edmonton Journal. To the Attorney General's statement that the question was one for the storekeepers to decide and that shorter hours might cause some to fail, the Labor member for Edmonton, C. L. Gibbs, made an eloquent reply, protesting against such "blue-ruin" arguments. The Committee decided to leave it to the City Council by a vote of 22-21; a U.F.A. party about evenly. Since vote which divided the cabinet and votes in Committee are not recorded. Fred White moved, when the bill came up for third reading, to re-commit it to committee to strike out Clause 10. This manoeuvre led to a division in which his motion was lost 7-42, only one U.F.A. member, Mr. Washburn, Stony Plain, now voting with the Labor group.

Centennial Programmes

The Centennial Program on April 3 was carried out in both Raymond Wards, the chapels being filled to capacity, over 500 people attending in each of the two wards. The program, which had been outlined by the First Presidency was followed as far as possible, and the large audiences were thrilled through and through as the events of the day were given.

The address of the First Presidency which occupied about 35 minutes of time in reading, was full of inspiration and encouragement for everyone who heard it, and breathed a spirit of progress, advancement and achievement that was good to partake of.

The Hosanna Shout was possibly the most impressive part of the program when all the audience stood and while waving a white handkerchief repeated 3 times the words, Hosanna! Hosanna! Hosanna! To God and the Lamb! Amen, Amen, and Amen. It would be hard to imagine anything more inspiring and thrilling than this shout.

Following is the program as carried out in each ward:—

Co-op. Oil Co. Mooted

At a meeting of farmers and others held at the Town Office on the evening of April 7th, 1930, a talk was given by Mr. J. V. Johansen along the lines of co-operative buying of oil and the establishment of a bulk oil station. He advised raising $10,000 capital which he said would be sufficient to build and equip a station and for operating funds. He explained at considerable length the basis on which oils could be handled and the division of the profits, etc.

On motion of L. Brandle and J. W. Evans—Wm. Redd was nominated as Chairman and elected by acclamation.

CONTEST WORK

Last Thursday, Friday and Saturday night, in the Stake House two nights, and the Opera House one night, the Mutual Contests of the Taylor Stake of Zion were held. In all, more than 200 people participated, and everyone of them, the losers, possibly more than the winners, were benefitted by their participation in these events.

In all of the events contest was keen, but the best of good feelings seemed to prevail, and all thoroughly enjoyed the evenings.

When 200, out of a population of the size of this Stake can be groomed and prepared for Contest work, it speaks volumes for the tenacity of those who have such work in charge. But, now is the time to plan for next year's events, and we are of the opinion that these contests should, to a great extent be the natural outgrowth of the year's work. Groups should be organized early in the year and by singing together become acquainted so that singing as a group would be easier, attain better results and a higher efficiency.

As it is there is a grand rush when contest work approaches, everyone that can be prevailed upon is rung in to assist, practices are held from day light to dark, some people are run ragged trying to do so many things at once, and when the smoke has cleared away, they sit down and wonder and contemplate whether or not it has been worth while.

When the latter condition prevails and it is altogether too much the rule, we wonder whether or not contest work justifies itself. If it could be carried on, as an outgrowth of the year's work, and the climax of continual participation throughout the winter season, then it would be fulfilling its desired end.

THE ALBERTA LEGISLATURE

The Labor leader, F. J. White, took occasion on Thursday evening to pay tribute to the government for its handling of the unemployment situation. Albertin had done more than any other province to meet the difficulty. The Labor members had visited the camps and had found the conditions satisfactory. Mr. White asked that the camps be kept open a little longer and advised an appeal to the federal government. Mr. Brownlee in reply stated that the camps were being closed for lack of patrons. While the unemployed would work in the city or $1 a day, only 1 in 25 would go to the country to do similar work for $10.50 a week with board at $7. The aid given to date had cost the province over a quarter of a million in addition to what the cities had paid out. The Premier thought that some value had been received for the money. The present trouble was due to professional organizers who had come in from San Francisco and Toronto. The Government was not taking any steps against these men so as not to give any provocation for violence.

Amendments of Bill 14, An Act respecting the Transfer of the Natural Resources to Alta. were passed with but difficulty. These additional clauses permit the Province to appeal to the Supreme Court in regard to public lands granted by the Dominion prior to the formation of the Province.

The passage of the bill "respecting the Education of Soldiers' Children" is a distinct triumph for Col. Weaver, Cons. member for Edmonton. Following his plea early in the session a committee of inquiry was formed with Mr. Reid as chairman. The committee reported such provision being made in Sask. B. C. and in Ontario. A bill was then put through authorizing a grant of $10,000 which may be used to aid soldiers' children to secure secondary education.

Mr. Baker, Minister of Education, in withdrawing the now famous School Bill a second time explained the Government policy with respect to it. Last session, he reminded the House, a bill had been introduced having as its important feature the compulsory formation of larger units of administration. The bill was not meant to be passed but merely to evoke public discussion. A new bill with larger units permissive only had been introduced this year with the result that both approval and disapproval had been voiced. Since such an important measure required greater support from the people it was again withdrawn. Before the next session conferences would be held with representatives of the Trustees and Teachers organizations as well as with others involved in an effort to draft a satisfactory bill. Mr. Baker then introduced an amending bill to the School Act since recent decisions of the courts had destroyed the difference between summary dismissal of teachers and dismissal after 30 days notice. The bill was passed through quickly, assuring teachers of 30 days notice as formerly prevailed.

Other Acts of considerable interest were: An act enabling the Dept. of Agriculture to buy pure-bred bulls for resale to farmers organizations; and an act to extend the privilege of tax rebate to users of gasoline for domestic heating and lighting.

At a late hour the Sergeant-at-Arms announced the Lieutenant-Governor's arrival. In full uniform and accompanied by his military aide—His Honor entered the House and seated himself on the Throne. He then gave royal assent to some 25 bills transforming them into acts. The No announcement was made as to house was then prorogued in due form the possibility of election. The Premier did make a graceful valedictory to Mr. Shaw which is interpreted by some as an indication of an appeal to the people. Nobody's guess is as good as any other, the decision probably depending on what Mr. King does about a federal election.

As the members left the building there was no sign of unemployed or of police. The peace of Edmonton at midnight prevailed over all.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

(Edson R. White).

CHARLES J. HARKRADER, NEWS PAPER PUBLISHER OF BRISTOL, VIRGINIA TENNESSEE, SAYS:

"Did you ever stop to think" — if you are a middle aged average American citizen — of how things have changed since we were boys? In those days all of the men wore white vests high top shoes, suspenders instead of belts, springs that supported the coat lapels, and separate white cuffs rolled round and perhaps of the reversible type to save laundry expense.

The women wore high neck dresses that dragged the ground, large baggy sleeves, shoes with tops that nearly reached their knees, high pompadours supported by rats, disdained the use of powder or paint and swore no man should kiss them that drank liquor or to whom they were not engaged to marry; the days when we shined our own shoes, bound up ordinary cuts and wounds with white rags mother saved back for the purpose; drank bone-set ten for colds and always had to consume large quantities of sassafras tea in the spring to purify the blood.

How we looked forward to the first big cold spell as hog killing time and the consequent feast of sausage, liver pudding, soups and other fresh pork delights! How we used to rake the fire wood out of the snow and frost and carry it to the big fireplace; when mother had the daily task of oiling and trimming the lamps and cleaning the chimneys and replenishing the supply of paper lighters she always kept on the mantle to save matches; how mother always did her Sunday baking on Saturday and, oh, those big slices of light bread, buttered heavily and finished off with jam!

And Christmas—the Sunday school entertainment and tree and how we looked after our attendance just before Christmas and just before time for the summer picnic; how mother worked with our sore feet and stumped toes in order that we could wear our knitted stockings and red top boots and how she greased the boots with tallow to keep out the snow; of how we made our own sleds and envied the town boys their store sleds and steel ice skates; of the many boys who were grown before they ever wore store clothes or had a barber cut their hair; of the days when our pets included pigs, lambs, calves and colts, when stick candy was the staple confection and chewing gum came in long white round sticks at a penny each!

U. F. W. A. MEETING

The U.F.W.A. met at the home of Mrs. Milford Alred, April 3rd Mr. D. L. Gilbert was the principal speaker of the afternoon, his subject being "Beautification of the Grounds." The address was very interesting as well as practical and at the close, the speaker gave the ladies the opportunity of discussing their individual problems so that everyone received a great deal of benefit. Mr. Gilbert extended an invitation to the association to visit the A. C. grounds where he would be pleased to show them the grounds and explain the various plants.

A most splendid bulletin from the Central office on "Beautification and Horticulture" was read by Mrs. Emma Nelson. A piano solo by Mrs. Gilbert and a humorous reading by Miss Lorette Boyson completed the afternoon's program.

The members present voted to subscribe to the fund being collected to place a portrait of Mrs. Louise McKinney, in the Parliament building at Edmonton. Mrs. McKinney, when she was sent to the Alberta Assembly in 1917, was the first woman to be elected to a legislative body in the British Empire. A discussion took place regarding sending a delegate to the Young Peoples Farm Week but the decision was left until the next meeting.

At the conclusion of the meeting delicious refreshments were served. The hostesses being Mrs. Alred, Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Bacon.

The next meeting will be held May 1st at the home of Mrs. T. O. King.

Be it resolved

That this Board desires to express its appreciation of the honor that our Basketball team has brought to the Raymond High School in particular and to the Raymond district in general in again winning the Provincial Championship; this too for the third consecutive year—an honor unknown in the history of High School basketball in this province.

We also wish to express our appreciation to Mr. Low as coach, and to the Staff for the splendid work of management and general fine discipline which has brought such honors to our district.

We wish, also, to express the hope that equally high honors may come to our H. S. in the approaching examinations.

The Raymond School Board.

The Student body thank the School Board for their kindness, and heartily join in the last wish.

Why do the deputy editors all look puzzled and watch us so closely. Don't you know, they are trying to write the character sketches for the year book.

The Seniors are all working and thinking hard trying to make the gym look better than ever before, for the first annual Senior Prom. It is certainly going to be an affair worth attending. They are sparing neither time nor effort to make it a grand success.

Application blanks were filled out this week by the students for the June examinations. Those pages seem to have a sinister, final look.

Balls fly in all directions about the grounds, and to attempt to walk from the gate to the door would be suicide. However, we are all experts at keeping out of their way and as yet no one has been killed.

Wanted: some enterprising chemist to discover a cure for Spring fever. (Grade XI chemists not accepted.)

There is not a single application for divorce from Perth, Huron or Bruce counties.

Included in the list are mechanics, merchants, salesmen, clerks, book binders and so on.

But there's not a single, solitary editor, reporter or newspaperman of any size, shape, color, or description being sued for divorce.

What a showing! What a record! What a tribute to the pure, sweet lives of the seemingly tough old birds that inhabit newspaper offices!

Ladies—if you have many suitors and if, among the number is the humblest scribe on the roster of the newspaper office, look well and kindly upon this jay.

He's apt to be a diamond in the rough. Chances are he may take you to the movies or the circus only when it's his turn to use the office pass. But mind that not. Gaze fixedly upon those mild cold figures from Ottawa that tell of broken hearts and busted homes, and remember there's not a newspaper guy in the whole list.

Don't forget that. He makes the ideal husband, hard work, long hours and only fairly monetary reward all tend to keep him humble and in his proper place.

Then again there's blamed little chance of alimony, and on the other hand his wife has the opportunity of getting the news before the paper comes out.—Contributed.

Ottawa, April 10 (Special to the Recorder)—One of the ornate and beautiful pieces of silver on display at the Dominion Archives is a silver tray silver service and wine cooler. The tray is a superb work of art and has a design of grapes carved in the silver very heavy and large cream and sugar the service part is of plain silver. A very heavy and large cream and sugar show the difference in design with the present day and the tea pot is of a squat design. The wine cooler which accompanies the service is heavily ornamented with the carved grape design.

Engraved on the wine cooler is: Presented to Captain John Lennon by the Master of Nine Merchantmen in the Island of St. Thomas for the gallant defence of his ship 'Hibernia' of six guns and 22 men of whom 12 were killed and wounded, against an American privateer of 16 guns and 150 men off the Island of Sanja on January 10th, 1814.

His Eyes Were Bigger—Than It.
How did you like the party, Jackie? "Awful. You said I could eat as much as I liked and I couldn't."—Buen Humor. (Madrid)

VARICOSE VEINS

The veins carry the blood from all over the body back to the heart.

The blood current in the veins is much more slow than it is in the arteries, and from the lower part of the body, the blood in the veins is going up-hill.

Varicose veins are enlarged veins. They occur when, for one reason or another, the blood, instead of circulating freely, is checked to some extent and so is held back in the veins which become distended as a result. This occurs most commonly in the legs and in the rectum.

Anything which interferes with the flow of blood in the veins is a cause. Constriction of the legs by tight garters contributes to the condition. The pressure of tumours in the pelvis, or an overloaded bowel in constipation, and sometimes in pregnancy, may result in varicose veins. Certain forms of heart disease in which the flow of blood is not normal may also be a cause. If the tissues surrounding the veins are weak or of poor quality the veins do not receive the necessary support, and in their weakened state, are apt to become enlarged. Overweight is a common cause because of the extra force required to send the blood through the abnormal amount of tissue. Long standing predisposes to the occurrence of varicose veins.

The prevention of this condition is, first of all, a question of keeping within the limits of normal weight and by having the muscles in good condition through regular exercise.

Varicose veins of the rectum called haemorrhoids or piles, are usually the result of constipation. Prevention lies in the correction of the constipation by proper diet and exercise. The cathartic habit does not correct constipation; in fact, it is one of the most frequent causes of the condition and so the habitual use of cathartics is indirectly a common cause of haemorrhoids.

Those who stand for long hours may be helped by lying down each evening and by having the legs gently massaged from the feet to the hips.

Once the condition has developed, relief may be secured through proper treatment, but, in all cases, the cause of the condition must be removed. It is much more simple to prevent than to treat, and we would repeat that prevention lies in the maintenance of normal weight, in the development of healthy muscles and in the correction of constipation.

Co-operation with the Farmer

LONG ago The Canadian Bank of Commerce developed a form of co-operative banking service. Each branch was to be a "community bank", to serve first the interests of the district, and, secondly, to place its customers in contact with a nationwide and world-wide service.

This modern, far-reaching banking service is of the utmost value to every progressive farmer.
